

Bluebird Boxes Installed at Weise Park

Thanks to volunteers from the Bluebird Restoration Association of Wisconsin (BRAW), the Village of Allouez has seven new bluebird houses in Weise Park. The group installed the new houses earlier this month along the loop trail within the park.

The bluebirds that will occupy the new houses are anticipated to arrive in early spring to take up residence and not only provide wonderful birding opportunities but also help control the insect populations in the area. BRAW volunteers will continue to monitor and maintain the bluebird houses annually to ensure nesting reproduction and returning populations.

The Village appreciated efforts like this from volunteer groups that help improve Allouez parks. For more information on the Bluebird Restoration Association of Wisconsin, please visit www.braw.org/.
